ST. SOPHIA (HAGIA SOPHIA) MUSEUM

Originally a church converted into a mosque and now a museum, this superb building wins admiration for the splendor of its Byzantine artwork. First built by Emperor Constantine, then rebuilt by Emperor Justinianus in the 6th century, the Hagia Sophia was transformed into a mosque in the 15th century after the city was captured by the Ottomans who added its minarets and mausoleums. Today this magnificent example of architecture rises with dignity in the Old City.

Besides the dome, which wins admiration by its height and size, the mosaics and frescoes decorating the walls are unique examples of Byzantine art.

HIPPODROME SQUARE

Originally constructed by the Roman Emperor Septimus Severus back in 203 BC, the Hippodrome was the centre of secular life in Byzantium. Enlarged into a vast stadium to enable to seat 100,000 spectators by Emperor Constantine, among all the other entertainment activities the Hippodrome also the four-horsed chariots raced around beneath the gaze of the Byzantine emperors. The monuments of spina (central line), which survived until our days, are the Egyptian Obelisk, the Serpentine Column and Constantine's Column.

GRAND BAZAAR

Shopping experience of a lifetime: the construction started in the 15th century, right after the conquest of Istanbul by Sultan Mehmet, and galleries were added during the years to form today's labyrinth of shops, grouped in streets according to the trade. TRANSPORTATION IN ISTANBUL

Security warning: according to some consulates, it is safer to avoid public transportation (subway, public bus) in Istanbul during the coming weeks; participants are advised to use the provided shuttles between hotel and venue, as well as yellow cabs (taksi)

Airports: Istanbul has two airports, the major Ataturk International Airport (IST) located in European side of the city, 23km (14 miles) west of the city center, reachable by metro; and Sabiha Gokcen Airport (SAW) on the east side of the city, Asian side. Taxis and public transport serve both airports, but a private transfer is a better way to go for some travellers.

Taxis: They are a lot of taxis in Istanbul, Turks use it a lot and you can catch one very easily. Taxis are yellow and you can see the word "Taksi" written on it, which means, "taxi" in Turkish. Use always your hotel service to call a taxi and if you are somewhere in the city, go to a 5 star hotel and ask for a taxi, they will help you. Taxis in Turkey are much cheaper than in Europe, and it is a way of transportation in Istanbul.

Bus: IETT city buses, tend to be slow and crowded, especially during the city's morning and evening commuter rushes. Use the Istanbulkart transit pass for city buses. Besides the IETT buses operated by the city government, Istanbul has private buses owned and operated by private individuals and companies in accordance with city regulations. These buses run on some of the busier routes, charging the same fares as municipal buses, but may allow you to pay your fare with Istanbulkart transit pass.

Ferryboat: Ferryboats are most enjoyable way to travel in Istanbul between the continent's.

Funicular: runs between Kabataş on the European shore of the Bosphorus, south of Dolmabahçe Palace, and Taksim Square, the busy center of Beyoğlu.
